Since the race was arrarged it has excited a good deal of speculation among horsemen in this city and vicinity, and considerable money has been wagered on the result, those well acquainted with the endurance of the animal being perfectly willing to invost their stamps in his favor.

The horse was to go to harness, and it was expressly stipulated that he should travel the old stage-road to the Forest city, the distance being computed to be about 116 miles. Two or more horses in this country have accomplished the featof trotting twenty miles in one hor, and a few years since a man undertook to drive a horse one hundred miles in ten hours, on one of the Long Island racing curses. Every arrangement was made that the race might go off entirely smooth and fair. To provide against misseing the road, a man was sent ahead in a light gig, which was ready for his neef the should break his own, the pilot making frequent changes of horses on the road.

At half past 4 o'clock on Wednesday in uning the horse was started on his journey. Mr. Frank Briggs, as will known turfite, holding the rillians over him. The point of departure was Fitchburg railroad depot, on Causeway street, at which place were congregated quite a number of interested parties, to see the start, including one man who held an aimsnac in his hands to make a sure thing as to the time the sun rose. The horse reached Newburtport, one third of the distance, in four hours, in good condition, although we understood that for the first few miles he sconned considerably. A stop of fifteen minutes was made at Newburtport, and Portsmouth was reached at 10% o'clock. Here the animal was taken our unharmessed, rubbed down, and fed. At 12:1 Mr. Briggs again took his seat in the sulky, and a start was made, the horse to all appearsable in excellent condition. Saco was reached at 4.80 P. M. and a rest of fifteen minutes taken.

A Balloon Duft —Perhaps the most remarkable duel ever fought took place in 1893. It was peculiar French in its tone, and could hardly have occurred under any other than a French state of society. M. Le Granpre and M. Le Plune had a quarrel, arking out of Jealonsy concerning a lady engaged at the Imperial Opera. They agreed to fight a duel to settle their respective claims in order that the heat of angry passion should not interfere with the polished elegance of the proceeding, they postponed the duel for a mouth, the lady agreeing to bestow her smiles on the survivor of the two, it the other was killed, or, at all events, this was inferred by the two men, if not actually expressed. The duelists were to fight in the air. Two balloons were constructed, precisely alike. On the day denoted, Le Granpre and his second entered the car of one balloon, Le Pique and his second that of the other; it was in the Garden of the Tuileries, anid the immense concourse of spectators.

The guitement were to fire, not at each other, but at each other's balloons, in order to bring them down by the escape of gas; and, as pistols might hardly have served the purpose, each zeronaut took a blunderbus in his ear. One would suppose from the amount of sweeping and cleaning up we have to do that some person or persons had made a contract to sweep out East Tetnessee. Whether he or they, as the case may be, intend painting it over, we are unable to say, but we see lappy to inform the public generally that we are getting along exceedingly well, having succeeded in cleaning up the country from Morrisiown to Sweetwater, a distance of about clabty-five miles, so as to bear inspection intended in the further west we get. Whether it is because we are pecting into a rebeinely bloom or not, we are nuable to say. We heard one Lieutenaut inquiring for some sand paper to smooth down some piles of dirt that had been swept up between two of the compaules preparatory to being handed off. He was superintending the sweeping: therefore he was interested in the inspection, and since we commenced this letter a Lieutennaut in company F, 12th Kentucky cavalry, informs us, that, if he though it would add to the nicety of the ground, he had better sand-paper it. The Dog Cases in the Recorder's Court. The Recorder's Court, on Wednesday, was the scene of another snarl over the dog law. When the Mayor issued his proclamation making it the duty of poheemen to kill all the dogs that were prescribed by the ordinance, a few of the efficers went to work killing dogs with great zeal and energy, but the majority of them held back, and were join to become dog-butchers. Among the anti-canineties, Officer Gazzillo, a native of Garibaid's country, was the foremost. He started ont carly on the day fixed for the beginning of the slaughter, and in a short time shot away all his ammunition, strewing the streets with dead dogs, and causing the gutters to run red with the blood of decapitated curs. Not content with slaving the dogs, Gazollo enforced the whole of the ordinance and arrested ver, and made an eloquent and feeling speech in his own behalf. He said he had been ar-rested and dragged to the calaboose on the holy Sahbath day, and for what? Not for any crime that ic had committed, but simply be-cause his dog, which he had tied up, had got losee and went on the street in front of his house. He had been a citizen here for more then seventeen years, and was entitled to pro-tection to his person and property; but what ort of protection had he received? He denled he right of any efficer to arrest blu without civil process where he had done nothing of a iminal nature. It are eared that Mr. Stann had paid his dog It appeared that Mr. Stann had paid his dog license, and that his children were near the dog when he was killed. The Recorder took the case under advisement till Thursday.

The next case was that of "trous," Joe Smith's venerable pointer. Geo. Marshall, E-q, appeared as counsel for Smith. Officer Gazolto was swon, and stated that on Sunday morning, about eight o'clock, he saw Grouse on Chestunt stiret, resurrecting a bone from the gntte; he fired and killed Gronse on the spot; after laying dead a couple of m'untes, Grouse jumped up and made tracks; he gave chase, and with his cinb killed Grouse again. Gazollo was not sure that Davis Jefferson's spectred dog had been killed; was certain that lie shot at him, and that he had no muzzle on. A colored witness was sworn, and stated that the spotted dog belonged to a colored boy, and had been given to him when a pup by his anut; the dog was not dead, and he could bring him into Court in two hours and a haif. Colorel Gantt desired to see the ordinance under which his client was proceeuted. The City Altorney produced a half sheet of foolscap with a newspaper slip pasted on it, and a written certificate underneath signed (but not scaled) by Register Heath. The Colonel denied that the paper shown was a law, and said it was a joke of the reporter of the Democrat. The ordinance itself was unconstitutional, and the Manorla proglamatic did because it did ordinance itself was unconstitutional, and the Major's proclamation was void, because it did not set forth by what authority he acted. He made game of the dog law, and asked for the discharge of his client.

Mr. Dunker took the hill to the Fourth National Bank, and ascertaining that it was counterfeit, returned it to the ladies, that it was counterfeit, returned it to the ladies, telling them it was not good. A good deal of tromble, it appears, is also occasioned between the New York merchants and Collector Draper by the arbitrary regulation which compels every acticle of merchandise from the South to be welghed, inspected, and carted by custom-house efficials. The cartage is regarded as unnecessarily oppressive, the whole system belug without the authority of law, presenting the practical result of imposing a N.-w York tariff on goods from other States. These regulations are londly complained of from all quarters, and very carious singgestions are current as to the disposition to be made of the vast rums realized from these exactions.

I am only awaiting a report from Colonel Da Bassey, to determine what action to take in the case of Emerson Ethoridge. If he has been go by of the language charged against him he is clearly amenable to the military authority, in the absence of civil, and liable to be tried before a Mittary commission. Since my attention has been called to the speeches of other parties, I have carefully read all reports of sach speeches which have appeared in the new-papers, and, as yet, have not seen any report which would justify the interference of military authority which would justify the intertorect of harmany authority.

If, however, there be in the judgment of the G vernor at any time a necessity for such interference, in consequence of an inability or indeposition on the part of the civil authorities of the State to take action an expression of such a desire, either on the part of the Governor cataing the inability or indisposition of the civil authorities to act, will be sufficient, and I will cause the parties countained or to be attended. anthor thee to act, will be sufficient, and I with cause the parties complished of to be attended to according to the nature of their cases.

The State of Tennessee is still under martial law, but the military authority with not be resorted to unless the civil authority fails to act, either from inability or indeposition.

Even in the event of failure on the part of the civil authorities to do their duty, the military should refrain from interfering in all minor cases, because the military should, as far as possible, sustain the civil government, and never assume its functions, except in cases in which prompt action is necessary to insme the public easiety.

WASHINGTON COUNTY, Ky., July 27, 1805. Washington County, Ky., July 27, 1855.

To the Editors of the Louisville Journal:

Some days since there appeared in the Louisville Democrat a mailingnat and sentrations letter, pretending to give an account of a speech made by Captain Wm. Edwards in Springfield, the Union candidat for the Legislature in Wasbington. The author of the letter is prompted by malice toward all soldiers of the Federal army, and he and his party are ready to villiv and make false statements against all the truly loval and gallant soldiers that assisted in putling down the rebellion and restoring the Union. This same letter-writer (tor his pountain style is known, being disciply wrote to the Louisville Democrat some weeks since, ridenling the gallant Colonel M. C. Craycraft, he are cover gentleman, but he is the candidate of a party which will, I fear, if they have a majority in the next Legislature, be greatly detrimental to the interests of the State. But I can give a reason why no conselentions voter can vote for Mr. Craycraft. He is constitutionally ineighbe. He is or was the deputy of Charles F. Boeley, the Sheriff of Washington country. Bosley has not paid into the State Treasury all the revenue and public moneys for the 3th section of the 2d article of the Constitution of Kentucky is as follows:

'No person who, at any time, may have been a collector of taxes or public moneys for the State, or the assistant or deputy of such collector, shall be eligible to the General Assembly, unless he shall have obtained a quietus six men his before the election, for the amount of each collection, and for all public moneys for which he may have been repossible."

Now, it is a clear proposition that Mr. Crayt-

Now, it is a clear proposition that Mr. Cray-craft is not eligible, and could not take his seat it elected, but I understand that the correspond-ent of the Democrat has given an opinion to determined that he has had a hand in this netarious plot. I shall not have a word to be said, at home or abroad, against his execution. But if he is convicted only of having beaded this rebellion; in ther words, it his offense is a political offense, I believe that he should be tried for his life, that he should be condumed to death, and that then his sentence should be communed to disfranchisement and banishment for the rest of his age. DAILY REVIEW OF THE MARKET. OFFICE OF THE LOUISVILLE JOURNAL FINDAY, P. M., July 35, 1965. The supply of money is very at undent, with very li

And to attempt, by enothing against the flurid background the perby usure of a gallows, with a man dongling at it, to heighten the effect, would be like highling tapers, when Gous lichtnings are flashing across the heavent to add to the grandeur of the storm. The idea of emphasizing the warning against treason by the execution of one or two men, when while States are bankrupted by it, whome where the execution of one or two men, when while States are bankrupted by it, whome the youth of fifteen States have been cut of, when every other rankly in those States a breken up, when communities are utterful, and one of the prosperity was wont to term, and when the world looks upon the speciacle of unmittanted cuffering, of power broken, of money equandered, and of towns and villages saced and devolated, such an idea is preposterous. The vuice of God in history is more solemn than any voice you can add to it by any human adminis-
